

A vintage wooden photobooth is the central focus, mounted on a wooden tripod. It has a large, square wooden body with a lens in the center and a dark rectangular area below it. A large, white, circular light reflector is attached to the top of the body. The photobooth is set in a field of tall, dry grass. In the background, a body of water is visible under a sunset sky with soft, orange and yellow clouds. A string of warm-toned string lights hangs across the top of the image.
